

APRIL 2020 NEWSLETTER

Dear Member,

Yes, you can make Coronavirus jokes - humour helps us take back control and connect, two things we have struggled with in our fight against the pandemic. We might be scared but we seem determined to carry on laughing.

More than ever we find ourselves sharing funny videos, jokes and memes. We are reaching out, establishing a shared experience and since we have been banned from congregating in person, we congregate online, we work online and we date online.

We have had another strong result throughout April & May with an increase in eligible registrations across inner city Melbourne.

Admittedly, not everyone is happy about our eligibility criteria and we have received some very interesting feedback along the way.

In readiness for our official launch we are now steadily working through the task of asking you to start setting up profiles and we will continue to write to you individually to achieve this over the next few weeks.

Our current membership is holding steady at 48% females to 52% males and we are extremely happy with this ratio.

We are also working on the Onplatinum Club App however the COVID-19 has delayed the progress so we will keep you updated on our progress.

Thank you for joining On Platinum - a club that is redefining online dating by actively focusing on bringing together successful, ambitious and driven people by rigorously vetting and pre-screening every single member.

If you have any questions in regards to your membership, profiles or support issues please feel free to email us at support@onplatinumclub.com.

We leave you with our contribution to Coronavirus humour:

Warm regards,

The Onplatinum Club Team
